

File Splitter <http://www.filesplitter.org/>

File Splitter is a freeware program which does not require installation and can be used to split files to multiple chunks as well as to merge multiple chunks into a single file.

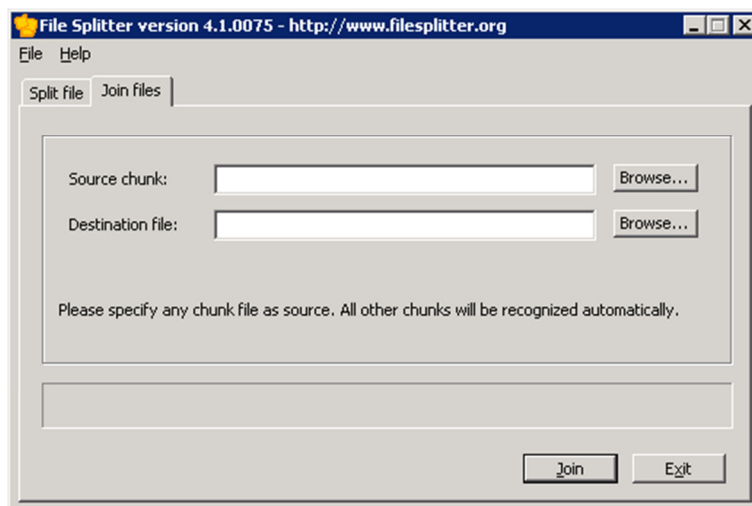

Splitting a big file with File Splitter Splitting a file is described below.

First of all, choose a file to split. It can be any file of any size. Then, choose a destination folder. File Splitter will save all chunks to that folder. For example, if your source file was mybigfile.exe, the program will create files named mybigfile.exe.chunk001, mybigfile.exe.chunk002, mybigfile.exe.chunk003 and so on.

Choose the proper size of a chunk and click Split.

Merging files with File Splitter

First, choose any chunk from the set of chunks. File Splitter will locate all chunks in a particular set automatically. Then just choose the destination file (it will be overwritten without a warning).

Just click Join and all chunks will be merged to a single file.
